

FAYE'S CHAMPAGNE SURPRISE

"Ready for your tonic, Mother dear?"

Kate picked up the glass. From her pocket she took the eye-dropper and carefully squeezed a few drops of clear liquid into the glass."

Chapter 21 p. 246

REYNAUD'S BAKERY SOURDOUGH BREAD

"At Reynaud's Bakery Sheriff Quinn bought a loaf of French bread, still warm and giving off its wonderful smell of fermented dough."

Chapter 51, p. 559

ADAM'S LETTUCE WEDGE

"If Adam had conceived thousands of ideas, the way Sam Hamilton had, they might all have drifted away, but he had only the one."

Chapter 37 p. 429

SAM HAMILTON'S LAST POT ROAST

"Will you stay to dinner?" Adam asked.

"I will not be responsible for the murder of more chickens," said Samuel.

"Lee's got a pot roast."

"Well in that case—"

Samuel said softly, "I wonder you do not feel a shame at leaving that land fallow."

"I had no reason to plant it," Adam said. "We had that out before...You thought I would change. I have not changed."

"Do you take pride in your hurt?" Samuel asked. "Does it make you seem large and tragic?"

"I don't know."

"Well think about it. Maybe you're playing a part on a great stage with only yourself as audience."

Chapter 24, p. 293

LIZA'S LEMON-LAVENDER PIE

"Liza was rolling out pie crust on the floury board. She was so expert with the rolling pin that the dough seemed alive."

Chapter 23, p. 286

LEE'S NG-KA-PY

"Pull up," said Samuel.

"Wait until I get my ng-ka-py," said Lee.

While he was gone, Adam said, "It's strange to me—he used to speak differently."

Chapter 22, p. 263

KATE'S FAVORITE CHOCOLATES

"Kate walked to the candy store and bought a two-pound box of mixed chocolates."

Chapter 39, p. 456

FAYE'S CHAMPAGNE SURPRISE

"Ready for your tonic, Mother dear?"

Kate picked up the glass. From her pocket she took the eye-dropper and carefully squeezed a few drops of clear liquid into the glass."

Chapter 21 p. 246

REYNAUD'S BAKERY SOURDOUGH BREAD

"At Reynaud's Bakery Sheriff Quinn bought a loaf of French bread, still warm and giving off its wonderful smell of fermented dough."

Chapter 51, p. 559

ADAM'S LETTUCE WEDGE

"If Adam had conceived thousands of ideas, the way Sam Hamilton had, they might all have drifted away, but he had only the one."

Chapter 37 p. 429

SAM HAMILTON'S LAST POT ROAST

"Will you stay to dinner?" Adam asked.

"I will not be responsible for the murder of more chickens," said Samuel.

"Lee's got a pot roast."

"Well in that case—"

Samuel said softly, "I wonder you do not feel a shame at leaving that land fallow."

"I had no reason to plant it," Adam said. "We had that out before...You thought I would change. I have not changed."

"Do you take pride in your hurt?" Samuel asked. "Does it make you seem large and tragic?"

"I don't know."

"Well think about it. Maybe you're playing a part on a great stage with only yourself as audience."

Chapter 24, p. 293

LIZA'S LEMON-LAVENDER PIE

"Liza was rolling out pie crust on the floury board. She was so expert with the rolling pin that the dough seemed alive."

Chapter 23, p. 286

LEE'S NG-KA-PY

"Pull up," said Samuel.

"Wait until I get my ng-ka-py," said Lee.

While he was gone, Adam said, "It's strange to me—he used to speak differently."

Chapter 22, p. 263

KATE'S FAVORITE CHOCOLATES

"Kate walked to the candy store and bought a two-pound box of mixed chocolates."

Chapter 39, p. 456

EAST OF EDEN.

September 20,2017

EAST OF EDEN.

September 20,2017